Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C.

121:

I. Claims 1-33 and 42, drawn to facsimile transmission, classified in class 358, subclass 442.

II. Claims 34-41 and 43, drawn to controlling a communication apparatus, classified in class 379, subclass 100.01.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons: Inventions Groups I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different function, or different effects (MPEP806.04, MPEP 808.01).

In the instant case, the different invention are Groups I and II.

Group I involves A method for enforcing a distribution policy with respect to information transmitted from a sending fax machine to a recipient fax machine

as fax traffic, the method comprising: defining an information distribution policy with respect to said fax traffic; monitoring the fax traffic in accordance with said distribution policy, said monitoring comprising: demodulating said fax traffic being monitored into a digital stream; reconstructing from said digital stream a graphic image representing at least part of the information within said fax traffic; and analyzing information within said reconstructed image, and applying said distribution policy with respect to said analyzed fax traffic.

Group II, involves fax traffic interception device for enforcing a distribution policy with respect to information transmitted from a sending fax machine to a recipient fax machine as fax traffic, the device comprising: a policy storage device for storing a predefined information distribution policy with respect to said fax traffic; a fax traffic monitor unit for monitoring the fax traffic, said monitor unit comprising: a fax traffic de-modulator for de-modulating said fax traffic being monitored into a digital stream; a data reconstruction unit for reconstructing from said digital stream a graphic image representing at least part of the information within said fax traffic; and an image analyzer for obtaining information regarding content of a respective fax from within said reconstructed image; and an enforcement unit associated with said monitoring unit for applying said distribution policy with respect to said analyzed fax traffic.

3. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:(a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;(b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;(c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;(e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Application/Control Number: 10/787,306

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
